DEDICATION

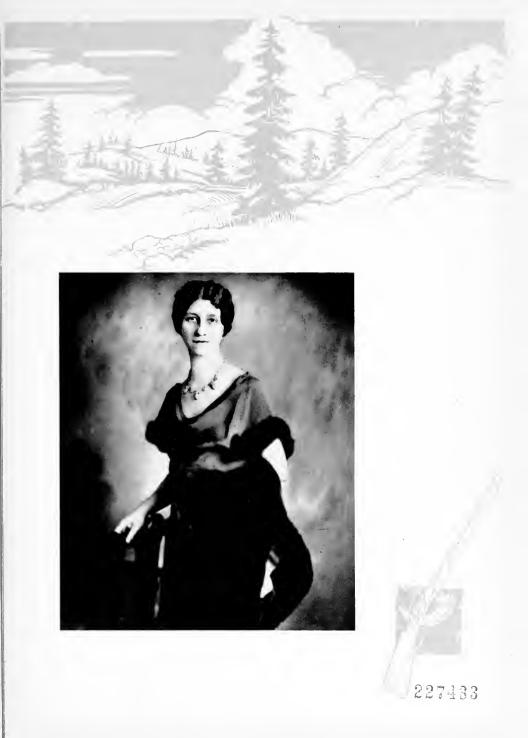

TO

MISS KILLINGSWORTH

Whose active interest has ever inspired us, whose co-operation has been unfailing throughout the years, and whose thoughtfulness has made her dear to our hearts—to her, with genuine and growing appreciation, we dedicate this the

PINE NEEDLES

OF NINETEEN HUNDRED THIRTY-TWO

Because America has been called the "melting-pot" of the Universe, because she is a nation made up of many peoples, and because Human Beings are superlative in our lists of interests, we have devoted this, the nineteenth volume of the PINE NEEDLES, to the Immigrant.

Our own great North Carolina, peopled with many blended types of immigrants, is a fairly true representative of America as a whole; but its types are not all-inclusive. With this in mind, we have limited our story to the great racial stocks therein. We present to you, therefore, the early Scotch-Irish, the English, the Germans, the French Huguenots, and the Highland Scots—both as representatives of their native lands and as contributors to our civilization and growth.

That the illustrations in this book may recall to you the early forefathers who helped to make North Carolina "the land we love" has been our primary aim. We have hoped also, as we have so interestedly fashioned this story in pictures and write-ups of our years in college, that this volume may serve to recall memories vividly and to portray truly the college which has so splendidly carried out the ideals of the first immigrants.

Book One

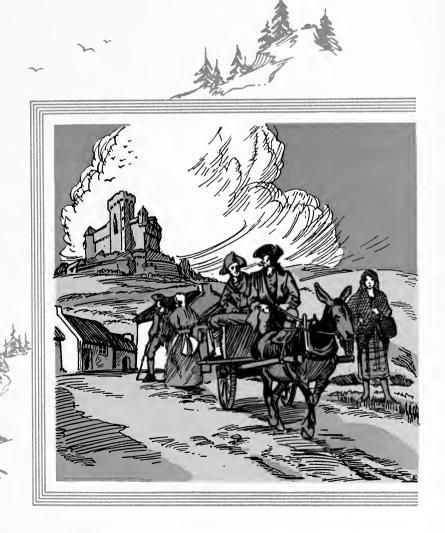

THESE Scotch-Irish peoples, colorful and ardent in personal characteristics, outstandingly democratic in political ideals, profound in religious convictions, and vital in their educational interests, have been chosen to represent our College. Coming from the lowlands of Scotland into Ireland, later to Pennsylvania, they finally reached North Carolina about the year 1700, and settled in the counties which are called today Alamance, Caswell, Rowan, Iredell, Cabarrus, Mecklenburg, Lincoln, and Gaston. From these ancestors of ours as their contribution to the vitality of our state have come such illustrious characters as Robert Howe, John Sevier, Andrew Jackson, Andrew Johnson, and James K. Polk.

We see our Scotch-Irish as a typical Ulster group in a North Ireland setting. A shaggy pony draws a jaunting car; peasants in native dress trudge slowly by thatched cottages. And in the background touching our imaginations softly—a distant castle.

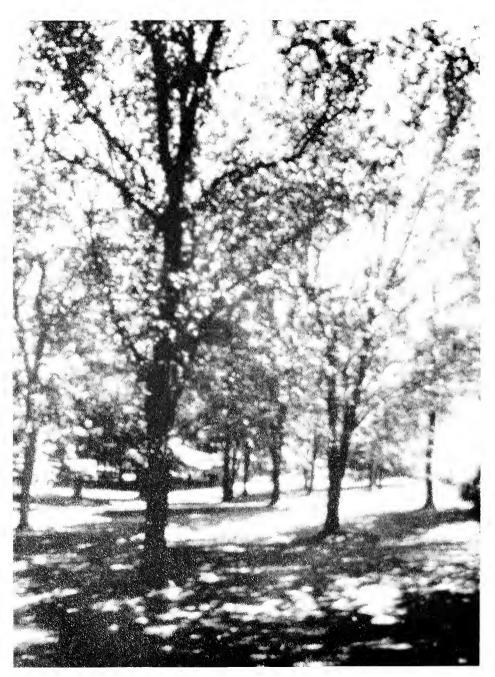

COLLEGE

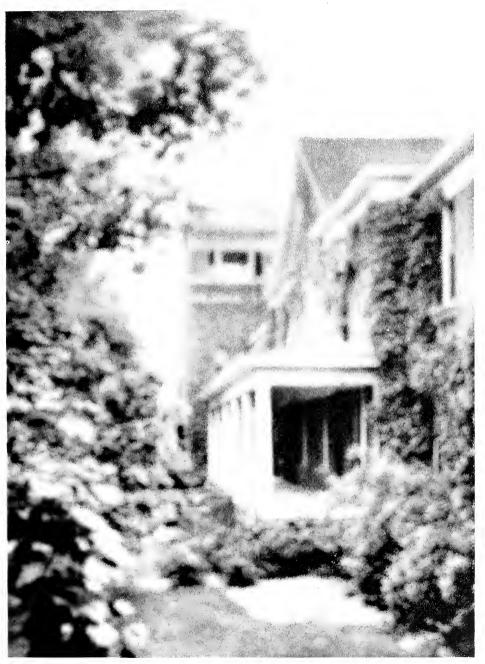

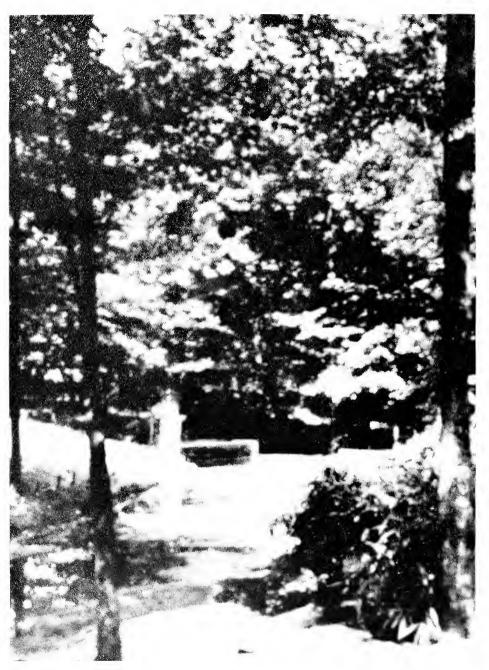

"And all the shifted sunlight falling through The... trees of the shadow whence."

"And murmin of the nindy world shall cease Nor echo through our peace."

"... among the dreams of days that nere I find my lost youth again."

"Full many a morning have I seen ... gilding pale streams with alchemy."

"Salute to the old ruins, the lovely old ruins."

"The dead shall live, the living die, And music shall untune the sky."

". . . While I sit reading long
And nourishing the long thoughts in my soul."

"Others who have wandered here have found repose."

Hail, Class of 1932!

When a young woman enrolls at North Carolina College for Women, she become a life member of a Sisterhood pledged to raise the intellectual level of each generation above that of every preceding one, not only by the contribution she makes as an individual, but also by the proper use and support of her college. To this high duty, as well as deep satisfaction, the Alumnae Association bids you welcome and hails you joyfully as you take your places within our ranks.

Book Two

BEHOLD—Americal" Significantly tapping the globe with his cane, the wise old professor paints for his "klassen" a vivid picture of the new country, while here and there a bright-eyed "fraulein" or "knabe" listens eagerly. The Germans came to North Carolina about 1700, settling in the Piedmont section of the state in the counties of Orange, Rowan, Guilford, Burke, Cabarrus, Davidson, Stanley, Catawba, Alamance, and Forsyth. These thoughtful and conservative immigrants added untold wealth to the state; their religious and educational contributions are, perhaps, most noteworthy.

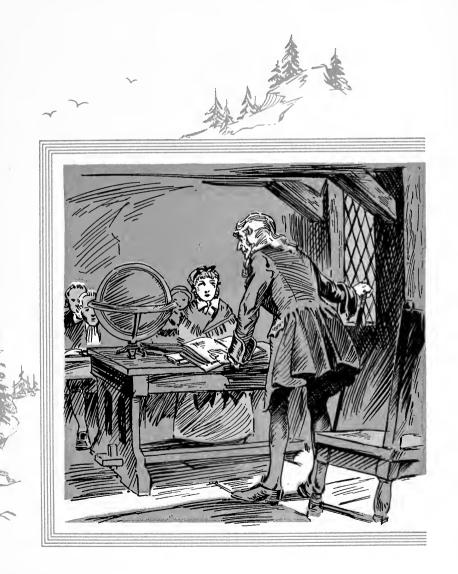

Bishop Augustus Gottlieb Spangenburg planned Wachovia, which is the typical German settlement. Around this has grown up the city of Winston-Salem and the famous old Salem College. The churches—Moravian, Lutheran, and German Reformed—the schools, and the college have been closely allied.

We can never forget the conservative element in our state, nor innumerable names which stand out and which will be passed down to our descendants; among these may be mentioned Sidney Finger, Robert F. Hale, Stephen D.

Ramseur, the Schencks, the Frieses, the Holts, and the Reinhardts.

Senior Class Song

O Lavender and White, dear,
Our pledge we make to you,
A loyal class with purpose bright—
The Class of '32.
O may we keep before us
Thy symbol's shining light,
Our standards leading, our class proceeding,
We follow on to vict'ry and to might.

Refrain

Here's to our Alma Mater,
Our fealty we bring;
And as we enter within thy portals
Thy laurels we proclaim.
So sing thy daughters, O Alma Mater,
The Class of '32,
For we shall keep our colors bright,
O, N. C., dear, for you.

And as we strive, still onward,
More knowledge to attain,
O, Alma Mater, we would be
Of service as we gain.
"Excelsior!—still higher!
Our motto ever be.
When we've departed, life's journey started,
Our class much honor e'er would bring to thee.

Adventures of 1932 at N. C. C.

When Alice went down the rabbit hole, Wonderland was no stranger to her than N. C. College was to our little pal—the Class of '32. Perhaps the brand new dormitories. Mary Foust and New Guilford, compensated to some extent for all the experiments tried upon her. That first Freshman Week—and what a week—examinations, exploring trips, and blistered heels! To be sociological, '32 was trying to "accommodate" herself to a new environment, and it was rather hard. Like Alice, for she was first too small for the door, then, after eating the cake, she was too big. Big Sisters, however, helped her, and soon she was rushing around like everyone else—going somewhere. Where? Well, she wasn't quite sure, but if one kept going she would surely come out somewhere. It was not long before she was bound by a silver link to her sister, Green and White.

It you remember, Alice was very fond of adages. "Thirty-two, in the election of her officers, followed the one that says, "if at first you don't succeed, try, try, again." Then one day she found herself the proud possessor of a motto—Excelsior. She had always thought it was something glass was packed in, but strange things happen in Wonderland. A song and a flower, plus an adorable little girl—Janice Hooke—were added to her collection. At last she felt that she really belonged.

One day, however, things once more became mixed up; all her friends wore berets—red, blue, green, and yellow. Thirty-two had to make beds, sweep rooms, count cats, and do other utterly absurd things. A week later—good things to eat and lovely dance music. Then normality again; society initiations were over!

Sniffle, sniffle—why is it when you are sick you get a week longer for Christmas vacation than when you are well? But our pal forgot all about "flu" when she rushed home for her first Christmas vacation—a week before the scheduled time.

The Red Queen said to Alice—or maybe it was the Black Queen: "It takes all the running you can do to keep in the same place." Poor '32! After exams she found that with all her running, parts of her were left behind. She gave them a sympathetic smile, and continued to run.

A fast-flying second semester, interrupted only by the welcomed Spring holidays, finished '32's first year at N. C. One moment!

"If hen If'e If ere Young and Flippant"

How about the screnade when the floor fell in, those source themes, and The Rat? Yes,—adventures rather—and '32 was glad to come back to life for three short months.

Again, '32 comes to N. C. C., but a different '32—one year nearer the sheepskin. Alice's sheep turned into an old lady in a china shop. Let's hope N. C. is a little less erratic than Wonderland. Under the able leadership of the Misses Rothrock and Shuford, she grew and prospered. Although she saw red for a few weeks before the arrival of her black leather jackets, she felt quite smug with the lavender and white shield on the breast.

Really, She's Not Scotch!

The Sophomore Christmas Pageant was lovely, even if '32 did do it all by herself. The red cloaks and the candles, the Virgin and the Christmas tree were pictures to remember always. In the spring, people began looking to the future and Alyce Fuller popped up as Junior Class President. Shall we call her the Black Queen? Daisies—all sophomores—no, all good sophomores know daisies. The all-night session, relieved by welcome seniors and still more welcome ice cream cones, resulted in a huge daisy chain that '32, dressed in Grecian robe, was proud to carry. And then the pool of tears; '32 without a mouse to cheer her up, sadly watched the departure of her sister class.

Vacation and Camp Silver Pines, where '32 felt very important because she was allowed to share in the counsels of state. Upon her acquisition of power, she received invitations to teas, not quite so strange as those the Mad Hatter gave for Alice and the sleepy doormouse.

The Black Queen ruled well; life went on; exams came and holidays went. 'Thirty-two seemed to have found a rut at N. C. C. The Junior-Senior dance, however, jerked her out of it and into a world of men and evening frocks. From dances to hay rides is a long way, but '32 enjoyed them all. Imagine going to the drug store until ten o'clock at night! In this veritable Wonderland, '32 actually achieved that privilege. At last, with a magic ring on her finger she, a senior, looked at the world and laughed.

But Now We're Dignified!

Once again a vacation and a camp. Our '32 a dignified Senior—the impossible had happened! Miss Comer, the dignified president of the dignified seniors, was all prepared for the last move. Thirty-two had become too accustomed to the amazing things that had happened to her to give more than a feeble gasp when she had the rare privilege of dancing in the perfect gym with the boys of the Carolina Glee Club and the Duke Musical Clubs.

109

'Thirty-two, after four years (happy, sad, boring, adventuresome, interesting, exciting—underline the correct adjective!) climbed out of the rabbit hole and decided to leave Wonderland to go "Through the Looking Glass" into the world. Rabbit holes are fun, but Looking Glasses are more fun.

Roberta Johnson Port

Class Poem, 1932

Now lifts the mist that shrouded these our years. Now from our eyes drop softly reils of gray As though for the first time we saw the day Break dimly through the cloud of silent tears And knew for the first time the joys, the fears, Of walking with clear eyes an unknown way; While yet uncertain we are willed to stay Our wanderings as now the time endears.

O, do not turn to paint the glowing past With other glory. Ours the years to be, For youth is ours and madness and the pain Of wild young love and freedom, ours at last To build the phantom years, in harmony Our dreams into our lives for loss or gain.

-Roberta Johnson.

Senior Class Prophecy

Enroute to New York, June 18, 1941

Dear Miss Killingsworth: At last I am on my way. In a week I shall meet Marion Holoman in Paris. From there we shall go to Africa to hunt white rabbits with black ears and tails. Our life ambition realized

There is so very much to tell you. In Washington, I met Droopie and Heftie. They are looking around at the beer gardens. They told me they were planning to open one on the root of the Jefferson Standard. What a treat for the N. C. girls!

Fopic Johnson just passed and in a sane moment told me to give you her best. She's the magazine seller on the train. Emma Miller, who is going to New York to open a night club, tells me that some great sorrow mined Fopic's mind. Comer is on her way to book the Glee Chibs of Carolina. Poor thing! She has very little hair left. She's pulled it out over the agony of selling tickets. She asked Topic which magazine she would recommend. Topic's only answer was, "What do you think?"

But I simply must stop and get some exercise. Cupid Chandler is traveling athletic hostess for the Pennsylvania railroads. She has really put us through the grind.

Give my love to Lib Dover. How is she getting along as Katherine Sherrill's successor?

Love, Miller.

New York City, June 19, 1941

Dear Miss Killy: Guess whom I saw this morning? None other than Margaret Byerly, Leslic Rothrock, and Mary Brandt. They have a place down in the village. They are studying and training to entertain the allies in the Chino-Japo War, which is still threatening to become worldwide. Margaret plans to do "Carmen," Leslic to play war tunes of 1917 to encourage the boys, and Mary to do the Irish jig.

I happened upon Edna Henley, Monk Kesler, and Margaret Dixon, who are also going over in anticipation of the war—Edna and Monk as instructors in gymnastics and Dixon as instructor in acrobatic dancing. They don't think "our Boys" will get enough exercise,

Speaking of war, did you see in the Times that Kuck was organizing an Amazon Corps? Page I ysistrata! Mary Sue Ledford and Charlotte Thorpe are her first hieutenamy. They've tashioned the uniforms like the marshal dresses of 1932—only the skirts have been changed to evening pajama style. We feel sure if the crisis really arrives our victory is assured.

But chough about war. We started a shopping tour. We tound just the "cutest little place" buried down somewhere with "gobs" of atmosphere—owned by Charlotte Wilkinson. It turned out to be a wig shop—evening wigs a specialty. Lib strickland and Lib Thompson are modeling. Strickland looked quite girlish in the blue and Thompson royalty itself in the purple. Charlotte will not let them wear the wigs on the street. She does not believe in colorful publicity. She believes in no publicity. Her advertising is managed by Mary Sterling, who, out of spite, gives no one an ad. It's a case of reaction. That's probably the reason you have not heard of the place.

This afternoon we were attracted by noise from a big tent out Bronxville way. We couldn't resist, so in we went. Who should be the storming evangelist but Susie Jackson? Katherine Kirkpatrick, Margaret Bacchus, and Mary Lewis had just been converted to "the millions now living who will never die" theory. While Betsy Parker was leading the crowd in singing our favorite, "Good Night Sweetheart Til We Meet Tomorrow", Gladys Price and Rachel Blythe took up the collection. Waverly Thomas, who translates for the foreigners in the audience, explained that they had picked up quite a bit of change that way. On the way out, we noticed Betty Sloan and Elizabeth Chappell serving coffee and toast. Good old N. C. training!

She's to be a Senator!

More later, Love,

On Board "Good Will," June 21, 1941

Dear Miss Killy: I shall write you all about the plane later, because right now I must tell you about our last experience in New York, in which I would have been utterly lost if it had not been for Laura Stewart, who is a most efficient traffic officer.

We happened upon a gorgeous building somewhere in the city. We later learned it had been planned by Frances Wise and built by Alice Humphrey's Construction Company. Who would have ever thought they'd do that? At any rate, there was the building.

It was, to our delight, Pop Rountree's private finishing school. Evelyn Parks, who is the dean, showed us around. In the gym we found Betty Adkerson and Iris Sith (imagine it) up on the rafters performing in a most unladylike manner. It was too much! We fled to the Advanced Play Room.

Over in one corner of the room were Margaret Church and Polly Truslow, giving a graceful demonstration in ping-pong. We were deep in the game when shouts from the opposite corner attracted us. Agnes Welch and Edna Cole were there on their knees playing off a champion tiddly-winks match. We were finally driven out by Harriette Carter, the referee, because we were too partial.

On the left of the corridor, a huge din attracted our attention. We discovered behind two huge openings Mary Henri Robinson and Mary Louise McGoogan. Mary Henri was instructing yodeling while Mary Louise was giving lessons to lyric sopranos. Virginia Clark was banging away at a piano in the center of the room (a most recent accomplishment). Just which one she was accompanying we are still trying to decide.

Finally, we reached a calm retreat in the astronomy lab. Helen Wilkins was gazing through a telescope. They say she's become quite ethereal and all that sort of stuff. We didn't dare interrupt her. We had to leave—much to my sorrow—for I would have liked to have said "hello" to Jewell Brady, custodian of the smoking room.

Pop sends her best. Love,

Mullie.

On Board "Good Will," June 22, 1941

My Dear Miss K.: Is this a thrill—crossing the Atlantic in the much talked of Good Will plane! Senator Shutord and Senator Sadie Smith did N. C. proud when they put through their bill for naming everything "good will" to keep the European nations from pouncing on us for not lowering our tariff—which these ten years has been constantly and persistently increasing.

The "Storming Evangelist" (see "Prophery")

Pank is piloting the plane. Happy landing! Margaret Kendrick is the hostess and is at this moment entertaining the passengers with "Postman, Postman," I don't believe I have ever enjoyed anything so much.

Ginger Barker is on board. She is going to Europe as a typewriter saleswoman. She represents a good machine. It is noiseless and has places on the keys for finger nails. I can easily understand her enthusiasm for the make.

Of course I know it was inevitable. Two of the old class are married. Alyce Fuller and her German professor are on their way to his old schlosse on the Rhine. There they intend to spend the rest of their lives burning library catalogues. Rose Goodwin, Dr. P. II. Dee, is overzealous about her new archeological expedition in Egypt.

While we were waiting for the dessert at lunch, whom do you think passed us? None other an Margaret Hester, Polly Norfleet, and Mary Bynum Fowlks. Of course they left the meal early—as they did in the good old college days. They are going over to Paris representing Macy's in the new skull caps for the early fall.

This place just swarms with old N. C. girls. Last night in the ballroom I noticed two flaming lasses—both in red. They were Sue Horner and Ann Brawn—gigolos for the Good Will. And did they get the rush! Well, nothing new in that for them. They certainly had training for it at the respective men's colleges of North Carolina. So much for this day.

Love, Mille.

London, England, June 23, 1941

My Dear K.: There is so much to do that I really have only a minute in which to write.

We "caught" a matinee today and whom do you think showed us to our places? It was none other than Anne Griffin. The uniforms are black. She's happy at last. We sat next to Pickett and Cornelia. They were looking for business. Cornie is an undertaker and Pickett works with her, dragging bodies from the Thames. It's Pickett's job to track down the murderer. They are making much money and capturing many long-sought offenders.

Iris Nelson has a sort of bookshop in the shadow of the bridge. She sells antiquated copies of the PINE NIFOLES to "college-sick" N. C. Alumnae who are touring in search of happiness.

Tomorrow afternoon we shall have the pleasure which we have long anticipated, Marian Anderson is on a concert tour here. I understand that her sister, Adda, carries the music, and Bondie Dickinson carries the piano. They take care of her as it she were an infant. Ruby Byrd is her manager and catalogues every seat sold for further use. All in all, they ought to make a very imposing quartette.

I'm just sick that we don't have time to drop in on Helo Gillis, Rosemary McMillan, and Martha Hutchison. They've opened up a school here for too-bold young English girls and are teaching them the art of shy looks. I expect all of old '32 over any day now to receive instructions.

Well, from here to Paris. I shall only have time there to meet Marion and yell to Babe Harcher, Lib Henley, and Miss Padgett. Babe and Lib make the best "occufs à la coque" in any of the Paris station kitchens. Miff Padgett has a window all her own, where she can flip cakes to the immense delight of the hungry gargons outside. She always did have so many salon tricks,

From now on, I shall have my mind on rabbits. Adieu, Mille,

MARY STERLING
Lawyer

Last Will and Testament

We, the Class of 1932 of the North Carolina College, being of sound mind, memory, and understanding, in spite of four years of labor at a state institution, but considering the certainty that our days here will soon be ended, do make and declare this our last will and testament.

ITEM I. To dear old N. C. College, we bequeath our deepest love, our never-ending service, and our unfailing loyalty as a token of the many happy days spent here in spite of freshman English, biology labs, ancient history, and ever-puzzling math.

ITEM 2. With sadness, we do hereby will to the incoming senior class our front rows in Aycock Auditorium in order that they may, for the first time, hear all chapel lectures. We will to them also the pleasure of attending "Junior-Senior" without preceding weeks of worry about the finances. Finally, we will to the class of Blue and White the fun of sponsoring glee clubs.

ITEM 3. To the incoming Juniors, we bequeath: fir.t, the fun of repainting Ye Junior Shoppe, especially the figures 1-9-3, trusting that they will have in their midst one more skilled in reworking figures than we had; secondly, as much enjoyment of being "big sisters" as we had while we played that role to them.

ITEM 4. To the incoming sophs, we leave the excitement of wearing sophomore jackets, sincerely hoping that they will arrive before spring holidays. We also leave them the privilege of moving to the "other side" of the campus, hoping that they will break over the old precedent and "rate" on campus.

ITEM 5. To the incoming Freshies, we bequeath our colors of lavender and white, trusting that they will always keep our cherished colors bravely flying; secondly, we will to them the bright greenness which accompanied our every action during our first days.

Our Old Stand-by

ITEM 6. To the student body at large, without any hard feelings whatever, we do hereby bequeath Greensboro's many rainy days. As a parting gift, we leave also the daily fear that Mrs. Boyd has checked, finding beds unmade and ghost fur underneath dressers.

ITEM 7. Realizing the varied groups accumulated on campus,

- We, the library science majors, let fall on worthy shoulders the long hours we have spent in the library, and the many "problems" which seem to be the pastime of certain faculty members of ours.
- We, the "home ec" majors, do bequeath to other home-makers the joy of ordering and preparing meals at the home management house.
- We, the "physy eds," will everything pertaining to physical education to anyone who wants it.
- Having survived all Thursday afternoon recitals, we of the music group bequeath to our followers our little strolls to the Music Building.
- 5. We who are sociologically minded wish to give to those who follow in our footsteps all the little blue, yellow, and white slips of which there is an inexhaustible supply in the book store.
- Realizing that in spite of our warnings, many students will be following in our paths, we, the education majors, will to them Curry Building, hoping that they will not get our jobs after graduation.
- 7. We, the English majors, bequeath to those who need it the art of learning and correcting the "comma fault," which, although explained to us in our first days, still remains a nightmare.
- 8. Believing that in spite of looking into the future, one must also look into the past, we, the history majors, will to our successors the days of agony spent in deciding whether such art was Babylonian, Egyptian, or Greek.
- Fully understanding the many labs the incoming science majors have, we of the old school bequeath to them our lovely white smocks. Incidentally, we leave our keen insight into math problems.
- 10. To our numerous followers, we, the language majors, will our ability to converse in the various languages, hoping that their conversations will be more easily understood than ours.

ITEM 8. We nominate, constitute, and appoint as sole executor without having to give bond, our dear president, Dr. Julius I. Foust. In witness whereof, we the said Class of '32 do hereby set our hand and seal.

Junior Class Song

The torch of high ideals
You're placed in our hands
Will light us a pathway
O'er life's shifting sands.
To you, '33, and, dear college, to you
Our hearts and our thoughts will forever be true.

Chorus

Our banner, dear classmates, ah, see it is blowing A message of courage to urge us afar. Its colors above us, its symbol before us, It bids us look to truth and love, Our guiding star.

The ideals, dear college,
We gather from thee;
The beauty you teach us
Unfailing shall be.
With youth for our armor, and courage our shield
We'll fight all life's battles, refusing to yield.

Sophomore Class Song

Class of 1934,
Strong for thee we'll stand;
Every day we'll love thee more,
Working hand in hand.
Trials and hardships come our way;
Staunch and true we will be,
Striving onward day by day
To prove our loyalty.

Chorus

We'll rally ever to the Green and White, The cherished colors of our class. They stand for courage, duty, truth and right, In our hearts, we'll hold them fast. Then let us raise our voices loud and strong In joyful praise of thee. And in the years that come along We'll always love thee, N. C. C.

Book Three

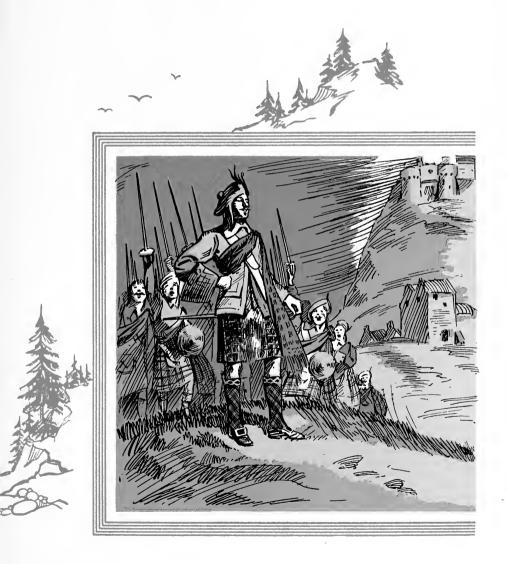

To respresent the organizations on our campus, we have chosen the Highland Scots, the most picturesque and interesting of all the immigrants who came to North Carolina. Emigrating from the mountains of Scotland, they came to this state in 1746 where they were accorded a royal welcome. The great MacDonald migration led by Flora MacDonald and her husband, began in 1772; at this time they outnumbered any of the other clans in North America. The Highland settlements were established along the Cape Fear River and in the present counties of Cumberland, Harnett, Moore, Montgomery, Anson, Richmond, Robeson and

The Scotch names will endure forever. Who can forget the daring charm of Flora MacDonald whose name suggests a lovely woman riding a milk-white steed? MacRae, MacQueen, Douglas, Johnston, and Cameron are good old Scotch names. In the fields of literature and education have survived among other names those of John Charles McNeill, North Carolina poet, and Charles D. McIver, founder of our college—both of whom were of direct Scotch descent.

Our picture shows "Bonnie Prince Charlie," the young pretender to the English throne, as he is cheered on by a mob of frenzied Highlanders. In 1745 he led the Scots in an illfated campaign into England and his crushing defeat at Cullodin Moor was undoubtedly instrumental in forcing many Scots to emigrate to America. They are wearing the characteristic Scotch kilts, vests, and short coats.

This is the third year of the existence of the Day Students' Organization as a unit of the Student Government Association. The center for this group, the Town Girls' Roem, is conveniently located in the Administration Building. It is attractively arranged to fill its need as a study hall during class periods, and as a social center at other times. Since the organization of the group, the girls living at their homes in Greensboro and attending classes at the college, have been able to participate more than ever before in campus activities, and to feel themselves an integral part of the college.

Adelphian Song

Shoulder to shoulder, hearts filled with devotion, With purpose not aimless but earnest and true, United by all the ties of deep friendship, We bring, O Adelphi, our homage to you.

We pledge to you loyalty long and unending, Loyalty which will be firm, which will be true, Devotion we pledge you that never will perish, And love which through all coming time will endure.

With courage undaunted we'll march ever onward,
Up heights to be won along parts strange and new;
But now and forever one great band of sisters
We'll be, O Adelphia, still loyal to you.

Aletheian Song

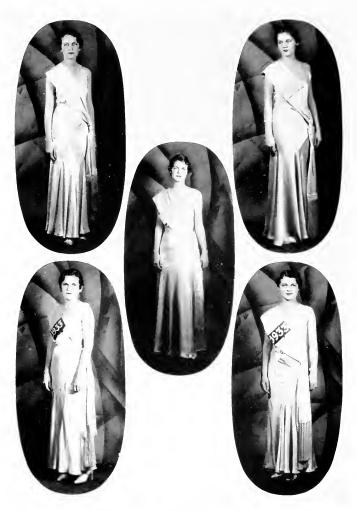

Ah! Truth, whose light throughout the countless years
Has been passed down to us from soul to soul,
We seek Thee, tho' through toil and pain and tears,
Until we find Thee, that we may be whole.
A spark of Thee is born within each breast;
We strive to feed that tiny altar fire
With other sparks we find upon our quest,
O Aletheia, of our pure desire.

Thou art an ideal, boundless, unattained,
While yet we strive to live Thee every day;
Thou art in all, and yet cannot be gained
Save by long search, and weary, and the way
Winds by strongholds of ignorance and sin.
But seeking Thee in all we know, at last
We'll break the gates that there may enter in Thy light of understanding when our search is past.

Cornelian Song

In joy and praise come let us sing
With anthem clear and strong;
Let all Cornelian voices ring
In free, exultant song.
Of pride for that fair name we bear,
Cornelia, glorious word,
To make us gladly do and dare,
When'er 'tis thought, when'er 'tis heard.

We'll onward, upward ever move,
Our footsteps forward pressed;
Together move in sister-love
Upon the mountain's crest,
To gain the fair, wide, spreading view
Which round the mountain lies,
And give us understanding new,
Enlightening our eager eyes.

May Cornelia's name have ne'er a stain
From any daughter's deed.
For her, all glory will be given
And give her honor's meed;
For firm and staunch we'll ever stand
Unto each other true,
And loyal to her noble band,
Hers, yea, her own, our whole lives through.

Dike, who speaks with reverberant grandeur, Through listening portals of true womanhood, Into thy vastness, we come now entrusting Powers as yet latent with will's hope imbued; Glad for the toiling, the common endeavor, Glad for the wideness of ways to be won, To do for the deed's sake, still keeping the vision, Trusting secure in the love 'round us thrown.

Stamped with that beauty and light of thy image We would go forth with a creative faith; Builders potential and makers of highways, Easing for others the paths they may take. And as the sunset gives place to the sunrise, After us cometh the child of the dawn To fashion the fabric of dreams scarce completed And serve thee forever, O light, farther on.

THE English first touched remote little Roanoke island in 1585 and wrote imperishable romance and mystery into our history in the one word "Croatan." But far richer and more enduring in influence upon the history of our state were the gracious and hospitable homes which they established on fertile grants of lands along our beautiful water courses; their ideals of freedom and right which were inherent; and their burning interest in the building of a nation. Because of these characteristics, we find such English names as George Durant, Sir Walter Raleigh, John Battle, Roger Williams, and Thomas Jarvis, ranking high in North Carolina's lists of honored patriots.

Book Five

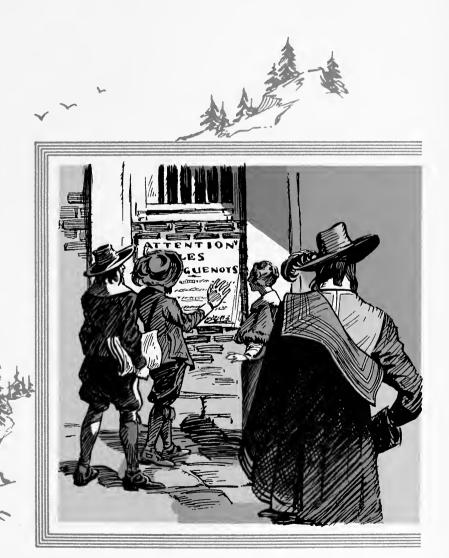

THE French Huguenots form the smallest group of the five great racial stocks which made North Carolina. Coming to America in 1685, they settled among and intermingled with the other immigrant types. Contributing a touch of glamour and romance, they have given sparkle to the conservative and religious elements in our state.

Characteristic French costumes of the seventeenth century are shown on the opposite page. Note the broad-brimmed and feathertrimmed hats and the jauntiness of the cloaks. The sign, "Attention, Les Huguenots," seems to offer them adventure, excitement, freedom, and, perhaps, wealth in the new land.

Mr. Hall went to the fair. Fine horse named Cigarette. Didn't have enough tobacco, so he couldn't bet on her. But in the big race they had five horses—one named Ice Cream, one Balloon, one Onion, Rubber, and Cabbage. They lined up; the gong rang; they all started off like soup. Balloon went up in the first half. Ice Cream melted in the second. Onion thought she was strong but lost by her scent. Rubber gave out in the stretch. Cabbage won by her head.

The maid with the duster Made a great bluster,
Dusting the bust in the hall.
The bust it was dusted,
The bust it was busted,
The bust it was dust, that was all.

"STRANGE AS IT MAY SEEM"

In London, about the year 1923, there began one of the strangest mysteries the world has ever known.

A man was found on the street in a dazed condition, talking incoherently and gesticularing wildly. Fyidently he was trying to make himself understood, but somehow he had lost all control of his faculties. He was taken to a famous hospital and all the physicians and surgeons were invited to examine him and help in the diagnosis. Many came from all over Logland, and even the Continent sent many medical men of note, but none of them had ever seen or even read of a similar case. However, after many consultations, an operation was deemed necessary.

In the operating room, it was decided that his brain must be removed and taken to the laborators for special transent. This was done, but when the doctors returned they found their partient missing. An intensive search failed to locate him around the hospital. The search broadened. London was combed—all England joined in the manhant. Seof and Vard was called upon, and soon police throughout the whole world were looking for the "man without a brain."

The hunt lasted for year, waned, and was all but given up when he was accidentally discovered by a student.

Police were notified and he was captured while teaching his class at N. C. C.

What I Know About a Ukelele

Ukelele is a fiddle that you twiddle till it toodles

Like a Fillalulu feeding on a platter full of noodles,

But it's rather more aesthetic in its nature and appeal.

Have you ever lamped a filly singing roundels to an eel?

Ukelele has a treble like a pebble when it toodles,

Like a daphodillion ditty when the faintness of it foodles;

But it's rather more exotic in its esotheric phases.

Have you ever seen a throssle when his thirst flared into blazes?

Ukel le has a wurble that can burble till it sobbles,

Like a gastronomic guinea who is glumpy when he gobbles,

But its meaning is more occult, like the psychics when they sizz.

Have you ever seen a wizard showing lizards how to whizz?

Willie fell down the elevator; It wasn't found out 'till three weeks later:

The neighbors sniffed and said, "Gee whiz!

What a spoiled child Willie is."

This freshman went to a football game her first one. She heard the yells, saw the cheer leaders, saw the players—but with all the cheering, she could hardly tell which was the game—the players on the field or the rooters in the grand stand.

She tried to learn all the yells, but couldn't understand them. She did notice, however, that all of them ended in "Rab Rah-Rab."

That night, her roommate happened to hear her when she ended her prayers by mumbling:

"God bless Ma God bless Pa God bless me Rah-Rah-Rah."

Matilda had lived in Greene county all her life—that is, so far, all her life. In fact, she had never been out of the county, except once, when she had visited her Aunt Phoebe up Bushy Creek way; but that wasn't so much.

She graduated from the county high school, and, as her Pa was a member of the Legislature, decided to go to N. C. C. You see, Matilda thought her Pa owned the school, having heard of how much money he voted to give it. Another thing that influenced Matilda was the fact that she had never heard of any other college and thought N. C. C. was the only one in the world.

So, on the day before she was to leave home, she visited her relatives and friends to tell them good-bye, as they are wont to do in Greene county. "Good-bye, Aunt Phoebe," she said, "I'm going to Greenshoro." "Good-bye, Uncle Jim. I'm going to Greenshoro." "Good-bye, Cousin Kate, I'm going to Greenshoro." Over the county she went, to kintolks and triends; and to all she would say: "Good-bye, I'm going to Greenshoro."

That night her head was in a whirl; she was going away, away into a new, strange world. "Good-bye, I'm going to Greenshoro," she said over and over again, and, as was her custom, she knelt to say her prayers. As she finished, she very sadly said: "Good-bye, God, I'm going to Greenshoro."

An Englishman, visiting his American friend for the first time, was enjoying a week-end in the mountains. In the dead of night, an owl screeched wildly, startling the Englishman so that he ran to the American exclaiming, "What on earth is that noise?"

"Aw, nothing but an owl," replied the American.

"Well," said the Englishman. "I know it is an 'owl, but who is 'owling?"

Figure This Out

A brakeman, a fireman, and an engineer are employed on a train. Their names are Robinson, Smith and Jones, not respectively. On this train are three passengers with the same names: Robinson, Smith and Jones, hereafter referred to as "Mr." to distinguish them from the three trainmen.

- 1. Mr. Robinson lives in Detroit.
- 2. The brakeman lives half-way between Detroit and Chicago.
- 3. Mr. Jones earns exactly $2,000,00 a a year.
 - 4. Smith beat the fireman at billiards.
- 5. The brakeman's nearest neighbor, who is one of the three passengers, earns exactly three times as much as the brakeman.
- 6. The passenger living in Chicago has the same name as the brakeman.
